First Meeting Is Thursday, August 10th at 7 PM at the Fernbank Science Center, 156
Heaton Park Dr., Atlanta
Everyone is Invited

- What's this organization all about?

- This will bring together beginners, amateurs, advanced, and professional photographers with wide range of gear and abilities but a common interest: wildlife, landscapes, flowers, smaller critters, and all things natural.
- Meetings include presentations on camera gear, where to shoot, and organize photo competitions and field trips

- What Photographic Experience and Gear do I need?

- No requirements for either what you shoot or your experience level. Smart phones, iPad, point and shoot, film, digital, etc.

Come join us on the 10th of August to learn more and hear a presentation by Eric Bowles.

Eric will give a session on Photographing Jekyll Island and the Georgia Coast, an area that will be the center of activity next spring during our GNPA Expo. His talk will include Georgia's coastland and marshes and whether your interest is wildlife, landscapes, or the local culture, there are great subjects and special experiences available. Eric will share images from the Georgia Coast, and offer tips to find photo and nature hotspots along with techniques for capturing great images. Eric is a professional nature photographer based in Atlanta specializing in the southeastern states. Eric teaches workshops and provides private instruction. His prints are in collections of individuals and corporations. His images have been published in books and magazines including the Audubon magazine and he is a past Board member of GNPA and current Board member of the North American Nature Photography Association.
